Laceby man markets new food which saved his pet

DOG OWNER'S MEAL DEAL

DOES this Laceby man hold the key to curing potentially fatal canine conditions?

According to research, he may well do, after saving the life of one of his own labradors by creating a special food for it which can now be found on the shelves of many independent retail outlets across the UK.

Peter Speed was horrified to find that a liver condition affecting two of his "best friends" was linked to eating protein-rich traditional foods.

After receiving the diagnosis from a vet, he carried out extensive market research and was unable to find a food that would save his pets - prompting him to launch his own recipes, with the help of food technologists.

Putting in substantial investment, and ensuring human food quality ingredients were used whenever possible, The Canine Cook range was formed, and he is now concentrating on the marketing of the brand as part of his 1st Class Pet Food company, with treats and further recipes to follow.

Mr Speed, who ran the Killing-holme-based Sabre Energy petroleum distribution company for more than 20 years before selling up in 1996, said: "Just like humans, animals have intolerances too. I have had dogs all my life and I had no idea of the dangers of traditional pet food until my dogs fell ill and I carried out research into their diet. Although it was too late for Gemma, my second dog Brandy was able to make a full recovery within weeks of changing to the new diet."

Pet foods often contain high quantities of beef, dairy products, soya and cereal - products people diagnosed with certain conditions often have to steer clear of too.

"I was horrified to find that the traditional dog food I was using was actually harming my dogs and I was concerned that thousands of other pets were likely to be suffering as well, simply because like me, owners were unaware of the intolerance dogs can have," said Mr Speed.

"Now there is a healthy alternative which dog owners can give to their pets with confidence that it

Former Town star's battle

FOOTBALL stars are rallying around a former Grimsby Town captain who is suffering with dementia.

Kevin Moore achieved legendary status when he played for the Mariners between 1976 and 1987, appearing 477 times, scoring 36 goals.

Now, aged 51, the winger turned defender has been diagnosed with frontotemporal dementia and needs 24-hour care.

Help find lost locket

A DEVASTATED grandmother has turned to the Grimsby Telegraph to help find a lost locket.

The piece of jewellery is more than just sentimental to 85-year-old Anne Davidson - it contains a lock of hair belonging to her daughter, Bernadette, who died aged 26.

She thinks she lost it while travelling on a bus into Grimsby town centre from her home in Manchester Street, Cleethorpes, and is hoping someone may have found it.

Brigade's safety warning after two men seriously injured

● INFERNO: Crews tackle the fire in New Holland.

Chip pan blaze rips through five homes

HOUSEHOLDERS are being warned of the dangers of chip pans after a ferocious blaze tore through five homes in a North Lincolnshire village.

Two men were taken to hospital with serious injuries following the fire – probably sparked by an unattended chip pan – in Regent Terrace, New Holland, on Monday. Firefighters said the 33-year-old and 62-year-old were rescued by neighbours before they arrived at the scene following a 999 call and said their swift actions had saved their lives.

The younger man suffered serious burns and is being treated in a specialist burns unit at Wythen-shawe Hospital in Manchester. The older man suffered severe smoke inhalation and was treated in the intensive care unit at Hull Royal Infirmary.

Both are said to be in a stable condition.

The property where the blaze is understood to have started was gutted.

The roofs of five homes – part of a terrace of 12 – have been destroyed as the fire spread through shared loft space.

It took firefighters more than two hours to bring the flames under control. In all, 16 people were evacuated.

Today, affected families were trying to salvage what they could from their houses.

Shopkeeper Roy Elliott, 65, and his wife Susan, 67, are coming to terms with the devastation the blaze has caused to the home they have lived in for more than 20 years. Their property was badly damaged.

Mr Elliott said: "I'm relieved everyone got out.

"I've lost a lot of furniture. I'm standing here in my slippers because my shoes were destroyed.

● DESTROYED: Fire crews using a hydraulic lift to tackle the roof blaze.

"I have been going on for years that I would never, ever have a chip pan in my house."

Mark Rhodes, head of community risk at Humberside Fire and Rescue, said: "Both of the men were very, very close to being fatal casualties.

"The fire started at about 10pm. We understand a chip pan in the kitchen was left alone.

"We believe it was burning for some considerable time before it was spotted. All fires are preventable.

"Fires happen as a result of lifestyle or behaviour."

Mr Rhodes urged people to invest in fire walls and smoke alarms.

Chip pan fires are the largest cause of fire-related injuries in the home;

electric deep fryers feature circuitry and design features, such as thermostat-controlled internal heating elements, which prevent the oil from being heated to the point of ignition.

Humberside Fire and Rescue Service frequently issues warnings and advice, urging households to switch to a safer means of cooking chips and advising that, unless the fire is easily contained, to leave the fire to the emergency services.

North Lincolnshire Council is helping the families find places to stay.

Breeders are being targeted with the high-end product

● Continued from page one only contains good quality, healthy ingredients." Trials have reported major successes, and breeders are now being targeted with the high-end product, which is produced by a major European manufacturer. Blended to produce a highly nutritious and healthy food with sunflower oil, linseeds, fish oil, cranberries, seaweed, green tea and natural compounds to promote health and supple joints, The Canine Cook range also contains Yucca to reduce flatulence and stool odour. Also in the mix – leading to the revolutionary claim – is Verm-X, a natural herbal compound used to control internal parasites in animals, but Mr Speed believes this is a first for a complete super premium dog food. Mike Jeffreson, of Eastfield Veterinary Clinic in North Thoresby, cared for Brandy. He said: "It does happen. You get dietary intolerances, usually to a protein, that can manifest themselves as sickness and diarrhoea, and occasionally it can develop into skin problems if it gets into the circulation. "It is very interesting that Mr Speed has gone on to do this. The dog was very unwell, we spent quite a lot of time going round in circles to investigate the problem, and ultimately we had a biopsy done and it turned out to be a dietary intolerance. As soon as he became very, very strict about the feeding, the dog got better." Brandy is now happy and healthy, as is Harvey, Mr Speed's other Labrador.
